

A Systemic Approach to social media and pre-adolescents through thinking skills education

Dear Readers,

Welcome to the second edition of our ASAP project newsletter, where we shine a light on the latest developments and experiences from our journey together.

This issue is particularly exciting as we take you to Porto in Portugal, to share the digital and social media skills we've embraced during our co-creation workshop.

Packed with valuable resources and links, this edition aims to inspire and equip you with the tools and knowledge for a confident and creative digital navigation.

Thank you for embarking on this extraordinary adventure with us.

Enjoy our newsletter and share it with your networks!

Co-creation workshops within ASAP project

Within the framework of ASAP project, co-creation workshops serve as point of contact between the project research team and identified priority groups: teachers, educators, families, students, school kids, school directors, experts.

These workshops aim to facilitate moments of connection and shared experiences, they are also helping the project partners to share the outputs and next steps. Participants from different backgrounds and expertise come together to jointly develop solutions, projects, or educational content
